Lex Mundi Member Firms Help Global Aircraft Service and Leasing Company with Successful Multi-Jurisdictional Lien Filings

A global aircraft service and leasing company, with operations in London and Connecticut, contacted Murtha Cullina LLP, Lex Mundi member firm for Connecticut, regarding a pending aircraft sale. The company needed to simultaneously file aircraft liens across multiple U.S. jurisdictions including Georgia, Connecticut and Oklahoma.

Murtha Cullina engaged fellow Lex Mundi member firms Alston & Bird LLP, Georgia, and Crowe & Dunlevy, Oklahoma, to assist with the lien process.

The three member firms worked together as Murtha Cullina handled the Connecticut filing and coordinated the necessary information for the other jurisdictions. Alston & Bird quickly located a lawyer in Georgia with the necessary expertise, and Crowe & Dunlevy completed the Oklahoma filings and provided the team with FAA expertise.

In the end, the client was extremely pleased to achieve a prompt resolution when the firms' collaborative effort resulted in successful lien filings in each jurisdiction. The client was also impressed with the seamless service and expertise available through Lex Mundi's global network of member law firms.
