Lex Mundi Member Firms Come Together to Settle a Union Dispute for a Technology Company

Kromann Reumert, Lex Mundi member firm for Denmark, was contacted by its client, to assist with a union dispute. MIPS Technologies Inc, a semiconductor manufacturer, was being sued by a union representing a group of 50 former employees that wanted forfeited stock options restored.

Step toe & Johnson LLP, Lex Mundi member firm for District of Columbia, had a similar trial in their case files and was brought in to assist on the matter. The firm's familiarity with the matter led Kromann Reumert to believe it may be possible to persuade the union to settle in Denmark if they were to counter the employees in the US.

Kromann Reumert acted as the lead firm, instructing Step toe & Johnson throughout the litigation process, which took place in the US. A partner from Kromann Reumert spent a week in the Step toe & Johnson office working alongside their team on the file.

The firms' joint effort and combined knowledge of the matter paid off with a reverse lawsuit in the US resulting in a union settlement in Denmark—another example of how the Lex Mundi global network provides seamless service.
